LOL at @neeratanden trying to minimize Gruber's roll in ACA. Here she is bragging about him to NYT. Note last graf.

> Along with these credentials, Mr. Gruber's position as an adviser to the influential Congressional Budget Office also left him perfectly positioned to advise the White House on health reform.
> "The most important arbiter of everything was the C.B.O.," said Neera Tanden, who was a senior adviser for health reform at the Department of Health and Human Services.
> The C.B.O.'s assessment of a bill's efficacy and costs strongly influences political debate, but the office does not publicly reveal how it calculates those numbers.
> "We knew the numbers he gave us would be close to where the C.B.O. was likely to come out," Ms. Tanden said. She was right.
> After Mr. Gruber helped the administration put together the basic principles of the proposal, the White House lent him to Capitol Hill to help Congressional staff members draft the specifics of the legislation.

@neeratanden Also, you are quoted in Blood Feud, but it's sort of ■ misquote (you said this had already happened):

> The irony, and it is thick as porridge, is that the instrument of this transformation has been the younger man whom Clinton once scorned ■■ ■ usurper—acting with a degree of cold calculation that the elder cannot help but admire. "Obama engineered this reconciliation, and I think the whole time he was, like, 'Why do I have ■ do this?' " says Neera Tanden, president of the Center for American Progress and ■ former adviser ■■ both Hillary and Obama. "He did it because he wanted to win, and this was the way to do it. But in the process, he's made Bill Clinton the king of the world."

> "Obama engineered this reconciliation [with Clinton], and I think the whole time he was, like, 'Why do I have to do this?'" said Neera Tanden, president of the ultra-liberal Center for American Progress. "He did it because he wanted to win, and this was the way to do it. But in the process, [he risked making] Bill Clinton king of the world."

To whom it may concern:

Please excuse _____ from work on Thursday, June 26th.

I understand that this absence may reduce the productivity of your workplace, but I can assure you that it is for an important cause. The #USMNT has a critical World Cup game vs. Germany and we will need the full support of the nation if we are to advance to the next round.

By the way, you should act like a good leader and take the day off as well. Go USA!

Byers v. Auletta – place your bets.

Dylan Byers
"... was a contributing factor to her firing. It was not, and I never said it was."

Dylan Byers
NYT SPOX Eileen Murphy tells POLITICO: "I never "conceded" the the issue a lawyer being brought discuss pay..." (1/2)

when tempers were already frayed seemed wrongheaded to Sulzberger and Thompson, both on its merits and in terms of her approach. Bringi[Copy]yer, in particular, seems to have struck them as especially combative. Eileen Murphy, a spokeswoman for the Times, argued that there was no real compensation gap, but conceded to me that "this incident was a contributing factor" to the firing of Abramson, because "it was part of a pattern."

Discrimination

Retaliation

All of the laws we enforce make it illegal to fire, demote, harass, or otherwise "retaliate" against people (applicants or employees) because they filed a charge of discrimination, because they complained to their employer or other covered entity about discrimination on the job, or because they participated in an employment discrimination proceeding (such as an investigation or lawsuit).

For example, it is illegal for an employer to refuse to promote an employee because she filed a charge of discrimination with the EEOC, even if EEOC later determined no discrimination occurred.

I was honored to host President Mujica of Uruguay at CAP today. Learned a lot about his efforts to reduce inequality.

United States Senator, Republican, Maine

Power moves: When Collins was 36, she met with Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Maine's first female member of Congress, on a trip to DC. She has now held Smith's seat for 17 years and is known as one of the most influential and increasingly rare bipartisan players.

If we could get as many Republican women elected as the Democrats: Women would be a third of Congress. I'd argue there would be a better balance and more people in the center, which is of great importance to me. Women span the ideological spectrum. We don't think alike, but we do bring a different life experience and perspective. We tend to be more collaborative and problem solving. There has been a real effort by the GOP to recruit women to run on the Republican ticket. I'm optimistic we can increase our numbers."
